

Citation: Thoroughbred Legends by Pohla Smith

In the annals of horse racing, there are few names more revered than Citation. The mighty chestnut colt won 16 of 19 starts, including eight consecutive Grade 1 races, and was named Horse of the Year in both 1948 and 1949. His exploits on the racetrack made him a national hero, and he remains one of the most popular and beloved racehorses of all time.

In her new book, Citation: Thoroughbred Legends, Pohla Smith tells the full story of this extraordinary horse. From his humble beginnings on a Kentucky farm to his triumphant victories at major racetracks around the country, Smith paints a vivid portrait of Citation's life and career. She also explores the legacy of this great racehorse, who continues to be admired and celebrated by fans around the world.

A Horse for the Ages

Citation was foaled on April 20, 1945, at the Calumet Farm in Lexington, Kentucky. He was sired by Bull Lea, a Kentucky Derby winner, and out of Hydroplane, a stakes-winning mare. From the moment he was born, Citation was a standout. He was a large and athletic colt with a powerful stride and a fiery temperament.

Citation began his racing career in 1947 at the age of two. He won his first race by an astonishing 11 lengths, and went on to win five of his six starts that year. In 1948, Citation reached the peak of his powers. He won seven Grade 1 races in a row, including the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness Stakes, and the Belmont Stakes. He also won the Jockey Club Gold Cup and the Travers Stakes, two of the most prestigious races in the country.

Citation's winning streak came to an end in the 1948 Woodward Stakes, when he was defeated by Noor. However, he rebounded to win the following year's Jockey Club Gold Cup and Travers Stakes. In all, Citation won 16 of 19 starts, including eight consecutive Grade 1 races. He was named Horse of the Year in both 1948 and 1949.

A Legacy of Greatness

Citation retired to stud in 1951, and he became one of the most successful sires in history. His offspring won over $10 million in races, and they included such champions as Never Bend, First Landing, and Hill Rise. Citation died in 1970 at the age of 25, but his legacy lives on. He is still considered one of the greatest racehorses of all time, and his name is synonymous with speed, stamina, and courage.
