Excerpt from My Little Cairo

"Cairo is a city of contrasts. It is a city of ancient history and modern skyscrapers, of bustling markets and tranquil mosques, of vibrant street life and hidden courtyards. It is a city that can be both exhilarating and overwhelming, but it is also a city that is full of beauty and wonder.

I first came to Cairo as a young child, and I was immediately captivated by its energy and vitality. I loved wandering through the narrow streets of the Khan el-Khalili market, with its colorful stalls selling everything from spices to souvenirs. I loved visiting the Al-Azhar Mosque, with its beautiful minarets and serene courtyard. And I loved watching the people of Cairo go about their daily lives, from the street vendors selling their wares to the women carrying baskets of bread on their heads.

As I got older, I began to appreciate the city's rich history and culture. I learned about the ancient pharaohs who built the pyramids and the medieval caliphs who founded Al-Azhar University. I learned about the city's role as a center of learning and culture throughout the centuries. And I learned about the people of Cairo, who are proud of their city and its heritage.

Today, Cairo is still a city of contrasts. It is a city that is constantly changing, but it is also a city that is deeply rooted in its past. It is a city that can be both challenging and rewarding, but it is also a city that is full of beauty and wonder.

I hope that this book will give you a glimpse into the heart of Cairo. I hope that it will inspire you to visit this amazing city and experience its unique charm for yourself."
